"It is generally supposed that men are much more untilly than women," said a bookseller yesterday. "But I can say, as far as my experience in the business goes, that a woman is utterly devoid of the sense of order. Do you see that jumbled pile of books? Will, they were all stacked up in piles, alphabetically arranged, a few minutes ago. There are some 1,400 books that we are selling for 5 cents each, and we place them in piles for the convenience of buyers. A short time ago a man came in and spent five or ten minutes looking over the books, during which time he selected five, for which he paid me. You would not have known that the books had been disturbed, for they were left standing just as they were when the man came in. When he left, that lady you see going out of the door came in. She spent five or ten minutes knocking the piles over and making chaos out of the order in which we try to keep the books. After she had completed her work of thoroughly mixing the books she turned to me and said. "I can't find what I want. I'll come tomorrow when I've got my glasses with me," Womanlike, she had been looking for something she couldn't see. Common occurrence! I should say so. This is no novelty. It is novel, however, when a woman leaves this bargain counter in any sort of order. Excuse me while I arrange these books cuse me while I arrange these books again. —Pittsburg Dispatch.

The Old Lady Got the Seat. The scats of the car were filled and a number of passengers were standing up as push their uneven way along Van Burer street. A well dressed man of middle age with a weary look upon his striking face cast his eyes about, and when they fell upon an elderly woman earrying a large bundle he arose slewly and stretched his arm forward to touch her shoulder. A arm forward to todae her shoulder. A spruce appearing damed serectly out of her teens, one of the sort who look out for No. 1 under all conditions, bad an observ-ant eye for the man's movements and quickly stole forward, with the full mental urpose of stealing a march on the old la-v. Bishop Polk, afterward General Polk, was one of those men who wear the seal of authority upon their brows. On one of his episcopal visitations he stopped for the night at a country inn, when his host at once addressed him as general. "No, my friend," said Polk, "you are mistaken. I am not a soldler." "Judge, then?" hazarded the innkeeper.

Position During Sleep. Almost every one has a favorite position during sleep, and no end of theories and be-liefs is indulged in on the subject of the proper position, location and general condi-tion for that sleep "that knis up the raw eled sleeve of care." Many physicians argue that one should cultivate the habit of sleep-Carriage and Wagon that one should cultivate the habit of sleeping on the right side, especially if one has indulged in a full meal late in the evening.
The food makes its exit from the stomach
on the right side, and it is for this resourchained that the position is more favorable to digestion without effort. This is important, as all of the faculties and functions should have a certain amount of rest, and in no way is this as easily attainable as during the hours of sleep.

Other authorities say that one should always lie on the back, but there are excellent reasons why this is not wise. The

CANE CRUSHER

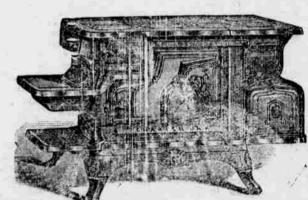

HE HONOLULU IRON WORKS COMPANY having secured the EXCLUSIVE AGENCY for the Hawaiian Islands for the Krajewski Patent Sugar Cane Crusher, are now prepared to receive orders for the same, to be delivered in time for the next crop.

This machine, which has been invented but a few years, has been adopted by a great number of cane sugar manufacturers, especially in Cuba, where it was first put to trial and where it became extremely popular. Nearly one-third of the whole sugar crop made in Cuba is being made with the assistance of these crushers. These crushers have also proved a great success in other West Indian Islands, and Louisiana, as can be seen by testi monials on hand.

These crushers when attached to any cane mill will increase its capacity by from 50 to 100 per cent; will improve extraction, will regulate feed of the mill. We have three of these machines in the way. For further particulars enquire at the
